THE MOST SENSITIVE TEETH

Can be filled with SMITH'S WHITE FILLING, WITHOUT PAIN. The most frail and shaky Teeth, even with exposed nerves and when one-half of the tooth is gone can be built up to the original shape and made useful for years. It becomes extremely hard—does not discolor, and is an excellent filling for front teeth. A large list of persons who have tried and recommend this filling will be furnished.

BANQUETTE INSPECTION.

Wear a sunflower to the lecture to-night.

General Peter Tracey, Oscar's manager, is something of an esthete himself.

The commencement exercises of the Valence Institute are announced for this evening.

At the Grand Opera House to-night Oscar Wilde will lecture on Decorative Art. A full house is assured.

Mr. Wilde wishes to lecture in the open air under the wide spreading branches of a magnolia tree. This can be easily arranged.

The community should turn out in full force to see the Mystic when given at the Grand Opera for the benefit of the Crescent Rifles, next Tuesday. On a large stage the Criterion Company will have a fine chance to show their mettle.

Yachting parties are quiet the rage now. Rowing parties are popular also, especially when the last train has left the shore for the city, and the belated pleasure seekers have to row three miles up a bayou to get to a car station.

The levee last night was like a camp field, so numerous were the militia companies drilling. Five commands, including infantry and artillery, were noticed at the head of Canal street, alone, and there is no telling how many more could have been seen between the Barracks and Carrollton.

The Handsboro Advertiser knows a good thing when it sees it, as witness this: "The New Orleans STATES, considering its youth and other things also, is among the best newspaper institutions of that city. The Sunday edition, particularly, is bright and full of good things. As a political paper the STATES is sound and reliable."

The first case of sun stroke was recorded yesterday, and the summer is here. Last year a very large number of cases were required to bring old Sol down to his regular summer business; but this year, his best efforts are brought into active operation in order to keep the big comet, which is flying at him, from plunging bodily into his red face, and giving him a black eye. When the planers are attacked in their own strongholds, we mortals escape punishment.

BORING BURGLARS.

Another Cool Thieving Scheme.

The residence of Mr Edward Keegan, 194 Gasquet street, was entered by thieves Thursday night. The method pursued by the thieves was certainly deliberate.

They entered the yard, went to the rear of the house, and crawled under it to the front portion, just under the parlor floor, and at one side.

They used augurs with which they bored holes through the flooring until they were enabled to take out about one square foot of the flooring. Through this opening a boy must have crawled into the parlor, when he found himself under a sofa.

He proceeded to pile up a number of articles and to place them in sacks, but was frightened from the room by the noise made in the room immediately over the parlor, by Mr. Keegan, who had arisen to assist his children who were sick.

A number of sacks were found under the house, together with the tools used by the burglars.

If you want trunks, bags, valises and satchels at moderate prices, go to the trunk factory, 24 Baronne street.

With a snatch!

While the steamboat Jewel was lying at Alexandria this State, Wednesday evening, a difficult occurred between Mat Williams, captain of the watch, and Sam County, a roustabout, during which Sam was cut in the shoulder with a hatchet by Mat.

On the arrival of the boat here, Mat escaped, but was afterward captured and confined in the third precinct station.

The public is respectfully invited to visit the Red Star Shoe Store.

Sun-struck—The First Case.

Thursday afternoon, while Mrs. John Cromors, aged 55 years, was employed in Chase's cotton pickery, at the corner of Orange and Constance streets, she was sun-struck. A physician was sent for, but in a short time afterward she died from the effects of the prostration. The body was removed to her former home, on Tchoupitoulas street, between Orange and Richard.

A Small Burglary

On the afternoon of the 12th instant, the residence of Mr. Girling, 1324 Bourbon street, was broken into and some articles stolen, which were valued at $13. An affidavit was made this morning, against August Otto Warner charging him with the crime.

If you want trunks, bags, valises and satchels at moderate prices, go to the trunk factory, 24 Baronne street.

Genuine sole leather trunks at the factory, 24 Baronne street.

Bags, satchels, shawl wraps, etc., at the factory, 24 Baronne street.

N. O. T. FOUND.

In another column will be found an advertisement of Mr. Louis Gimbel announcing the opening of a branch store at No 7 Chartres street, where the public will find a large and fine stock of boots, shoes and trunks, from the first manufactories in the country. He is also prepared to make to order Gents, Ladies, Misses and Children's boots and shoes. Mr. Gimbel's facilities for manufacturing is second to none in the city. His home made shoes will compare in finish and style with the best imported shoes from either Europe or the North.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

Distribution of Prizes to the Successful Students of the Academical Department of the University of Louisiana.

On Thursday, at noon, the 4th annual commencement of the academical department of the University of Louisiana was witnessed by a very large number of the representative people of this city in Grunewald Hall.

The address to the students was made by Hon. Randall Hunt, president of the university.

The oration was delivered by Hon. H. N Ogden. Subject: "The Value of the Classic Languages in the Curriculum."

The medals were awarded as follows:

GLENDY BURKE MEDALS.

Elocution, Albert Baldwin, Jr.; mathematics, Sidney P. Delaup and J. F. F. Gros-nevelt; best English essay, Johnson armstrong, Jr.

JUDAH TOURO MEDALS.

Bags, satchels, shawl wraps, etc., at the factory, 24 Baronne street.

ROWING AT ST. LOUIS.

New Orleans Entries in the Mississippi Valley Rowing Association Regatta.

The following entries for the fifth annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Rowing Association, to be held at Creve Cœur Lake, St. Louis, on June 23 and 24, will be of special interest to New Orleans:

SENIOR SINGLE.

Perseverance Club, of New Orleans—F. J. Mumford.
Bulldog Club—C. M. Schenck.
St. John Club, of New Orleans—R. G. Musgrove.
Farragut Club J. E. Muchmore, Jr.

FREE-FOR-ALL SINGLE.

Pawtucket, of Rhode Island—Frank Holmes.
Perseverance Club of New Orleans—Frank J. Mumford.
Farragut Club—J. E. Muchmore, Jr.
Modoc Club—R. G. Musgrove.

THE PRIZES.

Each winning sculler or oarsman will receive a gold medal from the association. In addition to this, through the generosity of individuals, for the most part, there are the following special prizes: A championship pennant to the winning senior four, and a silk flag to the winning junior four; the St. John Osgood cup to the winners of the barge race; challenge cup to the winners of the gig race; to the winning junior four, the E. Jacard company cup; junior single consolation medal; senior double, the Modoc cup; senior four, silver water-tank; senior single, the Madeline Gregory cup; diamond swimming medal; tub medal; gilt horns, the club winning the most races in this regatta.

THE COURSE.

The course is located at Creve Cœur lake, a few miles from St. Louis, on the St. Louis, Laclede and Creve Cœur railroad. It is pronounced by Hanlan and Trickett equal to any course they ever rowed upon, being free from the ordinary wind disturbances, on account of the shelter of high banks and the fine groves upon the shores.

The regatta headquarters will be at the Southern hotel, St. Louis, where officers will receive all communications and transact all business on and after Tuesday, June 20. The annual convention will also be held at that place on Thursday evening, June 22, at 8 o'clock.

An effective medicine for kidney diseases, low fevers and nervous prostration and well worthy of a trial, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

THE COMING DRILLS.

Notes of the Approaching Contest at Louisville and Indianapolis.

What the Military Boys Are Doing to Gain Glory.

The camp at Indianapolis will be established Friday, June 30. On Saturday afternoon, July 1, is the artillery contest, for which the following organizations are entered: Battery A, Louisville, Ky.; Battery A, St. Louis, Mo., Battery B, St. Louis, Mo.; Battery D, Danville, Ill.; Battery D, Chicago, Ill.; Burns Artillery, Nashville, Tenn.; Battery C, Louisiana Field Artillery, New Orleans; Battery B, Washington Light Artillery, New Orleans.

First prize, $300; second prize, $125.

COMPETITIVE INFANTRY CONTEST,

Monday, July 3—open only to companies of the Indiana legion. The following are the rules for this drill: "Each company entering shall consist of three commissioned officers, and not less than twenty-four men, in addition to the guides, and must drill in conformity to Upton's Revised Infantry Tactics. Captains of companies must certify that the men taking part in the drill are bona fide members of their respective companies. Each company will be allowed forty-five minutes for drill, counting from the commencement of the first movement on the programme.

The captain of competing companies, before marching on the grounds, will be furnished with a schedule of the movements to be executed. Celerity and precision in forming the company shall be the first portion of the drill to be considered; next in order, the manual of arms in open and closed ranks with and without the numbers, and the firing (without cartridges), both in single and double ranks, followed by the additional movements embraced in the programme Skirmish drill and bayonet exercises will not be required, but companies executing more movements than ordered on the programme shall receive due credit, but all movements must be in accordance with Upton's Tactics."

THE "FREE-FOR ALL"

contest is fixed for Tuesday, the 4th and is entered for by the following companies: Porter Rifles, Nashville, Tenn.; Chickasaw Guards and Porter Guards, Memphis, Tenn.; Company K First Regiment National Guards, St. Louis, Mo.; Crescent Rifles, New Orleans, La.; Quapaw Guards, Little Rock, Ark.; Louisiana Rifles, New Orleans, La.; Fulper Corps, Geneva, N. Y.; McKee Cadets, Terre Haute, Ind.; Paris Light Infantry, Paris, Ill.; Company E, Asbury Cadets, Green Castle, Ind.; Sherman Guards, Frankfort, Ind.; Logan Greys, Logansport, Ind.; Hall Guards, Greenville, Ohio; Company E, Fifth Regiment Illinois National Guards, Taylorville, Ill.; Arcola Guards Arcola; Indianapolis Light Infantry; Kalamazoo Light Guards, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Nashville Banner: The Porter Rifles met in their armory last night and decided to have a number of streamers prepared for the use of the lady friends of the company who will attend the drills at Louisville and Indianapolis; also for such gentlemen as wish to wear them. Each member will have at his disposal ten streamers.

There was some discussion as to allowing members of the company outside of the picked men to go to Louisville and Indianapolis in uniform, but it was finally decided to allow them to do so, the company to pay only the expenses of the picked men and substitutes.

Memphis Avalanche: Manager Kirkland has offered to give the Chicks a consert at Estival park a few days before they leave for Louisville. If the boys would accept and drill the manual for the benefit of the crowd, they would clear money enough to pay all the expense of taking Arnold's band along with them to Louisville and Indianapolis.

Louisville Sunday Argus: The Quapaw Guards and Porter Rifles will locate at the Louisville Hotel.

The Chicks will quarter at the Galt House, with their particular friends, the Crescents.

The Legion companies will probably be called upon to do some escort duty for the celebration.

It is rumored that Company F, of the Legion, will enter for the big prize drill; also that Company D will sail in. Go in, boys. You can do no more than lose.

The Nuckols Guards, of Frankfort will be here on the 27th, as an escort for Governor Blackburn, and will take part in the parade. It is not known whether they will contest for a prize.

Night classes at Dolhear College, Canal street.

A ROPER CAUGHT.

Another Guileless Stranger Taken In.

Monday night, about ten o'clock, Mr. Wm. Brown, of Texas, who is stopping at the St. Charles Hotel, was standing at the corner of St. Charles and Common streets, and was accosted by a stranger. The man introduced himself as a son of T. W. House, the Houston banker, and claimed to be employed as a cash er in one of the city banks.

In reality he is James Spaulding, a gambler by profession. The alleged banker's son invited Brown to take a walk around to the club, which invitation was accepted and they visited No. 35 North Rampart street, where one J. Neuhauser was dealing what is called a brace game.

Brown was invited to take a hand and in less time than it takes to tell the tale he had dropped all the money he had in his possession.

Believing the money had not been fairly lost he caused the arrest of Spaulding and Neuhauser, who acknowledged that Brown had lost $25. Judge Mittenberger fined both of them $25 or 30 days in the workhouse for being dangerous and suspicious characters.

Overworked men and women, persons of sedentary habits, and others whose system needs recuperation, nerves toned, and muscles strengthened, should use Brown's Iron Bitters.

The celebrated Malashof Bitters can be had at all respectable groceries, druggists and saloons.

Change of Time.

By reference to our advertising columns will be seen the new schedule of the lake steamer Heroine, which will hereafter leave for Mandeville at four o'clock p. m. on Sunday, Monday, Thursday and Saturday, and will leave at six p. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. The Heroine makes one extra trip on Sundays, leaving at 9 o'clock.

AN ÆSTHETIC LIGHT

Shed by the Presence of the Young Apostle of High Art.

Arrival of Oscar Wilde, Poet, Lecturer and Æsthete.

A Chatty Interview at the St. Charles Hotel.

Oscar Wilde, the apostle of æstheticism, accompanied by his servant and J. V. Vale, Esq., of New York, his private secretary, arrived in the city on the Jackson road, at half-past seven o'clock this morning.

No announcement having been made as to what road the apostle would come on there was no crowd present at the depot to meet the party.

They were driven to the St. Charles Hotel, where Oscar was assigned to Parlor 16.

HOW HE TALKS.

When a representative of the STATES called at St. Charles hotel this morning, Mr. Wilde was sitting in his private parlor, surrounded with books and engaged in reading. He wore light grey trowsers, a black velvet coat, or rather jacket, low quarter shoes and bright crimson socks.

The only æsthetic bit of color around him was his necktie, which was of the dull brick red shade known as terra cotta. The visitor's instinctive impression of Mr. Wilde is that he is a very elegant, refined gentleman, cordial in his manner, and charming in conversation.

"Do you not find our climate very oppressive?" asked the reporter. "Not at all," he answered. "At belongs to hot countries and I like heat. I enjoy the hot nights here. I can imagine how beautiful the city must look by night. Ah, Night is a great artist."

"Since you have traveled so extensively through the Northern and Eastern States, what is your opinion of the people generally in the East?"

"I am more than satisfied with my trip. I have visited every city in the East and West, and find the people very charming. California especially is a glorious State and more like the South.

"When I landed in New York and gave my first lecture there the papers spoke of me rather badly, but after my second lecture they realized the fact that the ideas I wished to inculcate were above the opinion they had gathered from such a satire as "Patience," and they very readily

ACKNOWLEDGED THEIR MISTAKE.

"As they were first inclined to view the matter in a flippant style, it was hard work to convince them, but I enjoyed the fight. Next to having a loyal friend, I think it the most delightful thing in the world to have a brilliant enemy."

On being asked how he thought the American woman dressed, he answered:

"I was considerably disappointed in that respect. They do not, as a class, dress so well as Europeans, although I have seen some very elegant dressing in America. In the last three years the art of dressing has undergone a remarkable change in England. Dressmakers are mere machines, and the English ladies have learned to study the harmony of color and graceful drapery.

THE FRENCH WOMAN

is made up of furbelows and tight corsets. I had hoped to find American women more artistic in their costumes, but they are still under the ban of dress makers, although I hope there will be a decided change from that before a great while."

"Do you find the American women to be good talkers?" "Yes, they are very brilliant and charming. I have heard of your novelist, Mr. George Cable. Is he in the city? I suppose of course you have a college of music here." On being told there was none, he expressed deep regret, remarking that the South should be the center of art and that the finest singers should come from New Orleans.

The conversation then drifted back to Boston and New York, Mr. Wilde remarking that Boston was an echo of London.

His question as to whether there were many good actors who visited New Orleans, led to a casual mention of Sarah Bernhardt's visit here. Of the great French actress, he spoke in the most enthusiastic terms, declaring there was not a more gifted or attractive woman living.

BERNHARDT'S TAFFY.

He also said that Madame Bernhardt had told him that in her visit to New Orleans she felt as if it was the one city where the people thoroughly understood and appreciated her.

"Have you had any chance to judge of the Southern women? You know they are reputed to be very pretty."

"I have only visited two Southern cities as yet, but the most beautiful women I have ever seen I met in Memphis.

"I anticipate much pleasure from meeting the Creole ladies in your city. I dare say, their dark eyes are far more dangerous than the yellow fever. But I hear you have a school of art. I shall certainly visit it."

Here the reporter could not resist the temptation to remark that the Art Union was in a very flourishing condition, financially speaking, as they had lately given a mule race for the benefit of the school.

"A mule race!" he exclaimed; "is it possible! That is sad, very sad. Have you a floral garden here! No! there should be one."

In speaking of his proposed lecture to-night, he remarked he would like to lecture very much in the open air.

"It would be beautiful," he said, "to speak of art under the boughs of the beautiful magnolia tree. I should like that above all things."

"Is this the first time you have ever been interviewed by a woman?"

"Oh, no," he answered, "I met several lady reporters in New York and Boston, and was "interviewed" by three ladies in Cincinnati. They were all very BRIGHT AND INTERESTING."

Concerning his plans for the day, Mr. Wilde stated that he would visit the Cathedral and the Art Union, and was exceedingly anxious to see the French Market.

He will leave here on Sunday for a tour through Texas, and then to Florida, and spoke of the probability of returning to New Orleans and giving another lecture, courteously expressing the hope that he would be able to do so, in order to become better acquainted with the people here.

Up Town Fire.

At 3:50 o'clock Friday morning a fire supposed to be the work of an incendiary, occurred in a one-story frame uncocupied milk stable, situated at the corner of Burdette and Colin streets.

The building was entirely destroyed. It was valued at about $200 and was the property of Mr. F. Fischer.

A Severe Accident.

Patsy Gaure, aged seven years, residing on Villere street, between Bienville and Conti, was run over by a wagon on Bienville street, between Villere and Bourbon, yesterday afternoon, and had his left leg broken.

It was clear, bright and warm yesterday, with a light breeze blowing all day.

Business was fair on the front.

The rivers are rising at Chattanooga, Cincinnati, Leavenworth, Louisville, St. Louis and Yankton, and falling at all other points.

There has been a heavy rain through the West, which has caused the Ohio, Wabash, Miami Licking, Kentucky, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers to rise.

We are much pleased to learn that some of our steamboatmen have won in the lottery drawn on Tuesday. We noticed one prominent captain and owner has already invested in a fine horse and buggy and was on the road yesterday with his turn out. He has not exactly got the right way of driving and he thinks that all vehicles should have a rudder to them.

The famous anchor line steamer City of Baton Rouge is now receiving and registering passengers to leave Saturday for St. Louis and way landings. Speed, safety and comfort is the motto of this excellent steamer.

The favorite Grand Ecore packet Jesse K Bell is ready for business. She leaves on Saturday.

The Corona for Bayou Sara, Jewel for Shreveport, U. P. Schenck for Cincinnati, H. Hanna Blanks for Ouachita River, J. M. Chambers for the Teche, and Assumption for Lafourche, are the Saturday packets.

The Fred A Blanks is the Saturday U. S. mail steamer in place of the Natchez for Vicksburg and way landings. She is receiving freight.

THE MEASURE OF HER LOVE.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Myrtle dear?"

"Yes George, what is it?" replied the girl, glancing shyly upward.

The radiant glory of a summer moon shone down upon the earth this June night, bathing in all its mellow splendor the leafy branches of the sturdy old oaks that had for centuries shaded the entrance to Castle McMurtry and laughed defiance to the fierce gales that every winter came howling down in all their cruel force and fury from the moorlands lying to the westward of the castle. On the edge of the broad demesne that stretched away to the south stood a large, brindle cow, and as the moonlight flecked with silvery lustre, her starboard ribs she seemed to Myrtle a perfect picture of sweet content and almost holy calm.

"Is it not a beautiful night dearest?" murmured the girl. "See how the moonbeams flutter down through the trees, making strange lights and shadows that flit among the shrubs and flowers in such a weird, ghost-like fashion. The dell is indeed clothed with loveliness to-night sweetheart."

"Yes," said George W. Simpson "this is the boss dell!" and then, looking down into the pure, innocent face that was lifted to his, he took in his own broad, third-base palm the little hand that erstwhile held up Myrtle's polonaise. As they stood there silently in the bosky glade George passed his arm silently but firmly around Myrtle's waist.

The noble girl did not shy.

"Do you love me, sweetheart?" he asked in accents that were tremulous with tremulousness.

Myrtle's head was drooping now, and the rosy blushes of Calumet avenue innocence were chasing each other as her peachy cheeks.

George drew her more closely to him. If a mosquito had tried to pass between them it would have been bad—for the mosquito.

"Can you doubt me, darling?" he whispered. You surely must know that I love you with a wild, passionate, whoa-Emma love that can never die. Do you not love me a little in return?"

For an instant the girl did not speak. George heard the whisking of the brindle cow's tail break in rudely upon the solemn stillness of the night, and ever and anon came the dull thud of the bullfrog as he jumped into a neighboring pond. Presently Myrtle placed her arms around his neck, and, with a wistful, baby's-got-the-cramp look in her sweet face, she said to him; "I love you, George, with a deathless devotion that will eventually keep you broke." And with these fateful words she adjusted her rumpled bang and fearlessly led the way to an ice-cream lair.

A Fight With a Wildcat.

Port Huron Times.

Abraham Holt, eleven years of age, encountered a wildcat while strolling through the woods in Sarnia Township, accompanied by a little dog. The animal was found crouched in the fork of a tree about twelve feet from the ground. Under the impression that it was an enormous black squirrel, he threw a stick at it, which caused it to spring from its elevated perch and land squarely on the lad's breast. The dog then sprang at the cat, causing it to let go its grip on the boy and fight the dog. The lad fortunately carried a large stick, which by the time the cat had driven off the dog and again turned to attack him he had recovered presence of mind enough to use with vigor. For the next few minutes it was a triangular struggle, in which the cat fought desperately with the boy and dog, until at last a well aimed blow from the boy's stick on the side of the savage brute's head ended its struggles.

On examination the cat proved to be of a variety not recognized by any who inspected it as common to the locality. It measured about thirty inches in length, the fur being black and sprinkled with white hairs, and had a long bushy tail.
